"JOHN" JOE, THE "YANKEE CLIPPER"
—Former New York Yankees superstar Joe DiMaggio looks on as he is honored at the annual DiMaggio Award ceremony at the New York Yankees Stadium, in 1974 before the start of the annual DiMaggio Award ceremony. The award is presented to the Yankees player who is judged to be the best in the league.

NEW YORK (AP) — The left, straight-backed man with silver hair had managed to escape a small portion of the heat he had when he was hit by a center of a million-dollar crowd.

Oh, Mr. DiMaggio, may I have your autograph? a middle-aged man with dark hair and a mustache asked. "I don't have all the time," DiMaggio responded politely. "There are a lot of fans here."

"That's a very nice day," DiMaggio said in a low voice. A moment later DiMaggio and a couple of friends were walking their way toward the coffee shop when they encountered another barrier: a crowd of cameramen waiting for a shot of the man.

"Hey, Joe," yelled one of the cameramen. "My brother and I followed your career all the way. Now every year we could see you sign one for my brother (he's on me) on his side." DiMaggio smiled and signed the autograph.

"Thank you, Joe," yelled another. "Red signed me, too. Joe DiMaggio," and he signed the autograph. "Thank you, Joe," yelled another. "Red signed me, too. Joe DiMaggio," and he signed the autograph.

DiMaggio then said the crowd he did not ask for and take a shot of him in the stadium. He was a large man, but he was a very good player. He was a very good player. He was a very good player.
